Lets say there are two models, Model1 and Model2 and model1 and model2 has lists in the models.models,

and there are some properties on those lists, so if i want to say that there are 12 items in the model2.models[0] and 14 in Model1.models[0] and have them compared in an if statement i can't compare them directly. I've tried defining an attributelist class and comparing them through there, but the lxml parser doesn't recognize the class and i was wondering if there was a better way to do this.

from lxml import objectify, etree from lxml.builder import ElementMaker import re
class attrlist(list):
    def __init__(self):
        self.value = {}
    def add(self, key, value):
        self.value[key] = value
    def __add__(self, other):
        for key, value in other.value.iteritems():
            self.add(key, value)
